I took part in a round table on European food safety, regarding the statutory texts and the European structures for hygiene. (HACCP, a best practice guide for hygiene) The French structural specifications were presented as well as a concrete example of the steps to be taken by a butchery to obtain the European approval.	The participants were motivated although less had taken part than originally planned. All in all, it seems difficult to convince and activate the affected businesses, such as food companies, restaurants, etc.	The professionals were very interested in a best practice guide regarding European hygiene for bakeries, restaurants, etc., as such a guide is less requiring than the HACCP method. It could be considered to assist with the development of a best practice guide for European hygiene.
